

Digital File 'Is art dead.doc'

Is art dead?

That is the question literally posed by Chinese artists Xi Jun and Cai Yuan in their show at Chinese Arts Centre opening to the public this coming Friday 24 September.

The two artists constantly challenge what art is and how we treat it? Publicity stunts like jumping on a prize winning art piece – (an unmade bed) and running naked in Westminster with a big toady called (Tony Bear) are just two such performances that has provided them with notable fame. This time it has to be seen to be believed! As the artists have constructed a giant 10 metre coffin in Chinese Arts Centre's gallery space.

For the opening press night on 23 September, the artists will once again be up to their playful antics which will involve hanging upside down performing their own special rendition of Happy and glorious – don't miss it!

For coverage / images and more information contact:

Contact Alyson Doocey on +44 (0)161 832 7271 or 07958 340 723
marketing@chineseartscentre.org www.chineseartscentre.org

IDENTIFIER

GB3451/OC/D/1801/72

ARTIST

Cai, Yuan, artist; Xi, Jian Jun, (b. 1962), artist; Chinese Arts Centre, 1989-2013; Doocey, Alyson, CAC marketing manager (2003-2008); Mad For Real